

Team Check-in & 1:1 Cadence Template

The recurring operating rhythm behind the Operational Excellence Program

01 PURPOSE

Metrics tell you something is wrong; this cadence is how it actually gets talked about and fixed. A consistent structure means issues surface early and nothing depends on someone remembering to bring it up.

02 RECURRING CADENCE

MEETING	FREQUENCY	ATTENDEES	FOCUS
1:1	Monthly, 30 min	Team Lead + Specialist	Individual performance, blockers, development
Team Sync	Weekly, 20 min	Full team	Shared metrics, announcements, quick wins
Weekly Business Review	Weekly, 45 min	PM + Team Leads + Leadership	Trend review across all KPIs, escalations, decisions needed
Monthly Deep Dive	Monthly, 60 min	PM + Team Leads	Root-cause review on any metric off-track 3+ weeks

03 1:1 AGENDA TEMPLATE

- What's working — a recent win or task that went well, in the specialist's own words.
- What's not working — blockers, tools, or process friction getting in the way.
- Metric check-in — quick look at AHT / Idle Rate trend since the last 1:1, not a deep audit.
- What's next — one or two concrete action items, owned by name, with a date.
- Personal check-in — workload, wellbeing, career development; not metrics-only.

04 TEAM SYNC AGENDA TEMPLATE

- Metrics snapshot — team-level AHT, Idle Rate, accuracy vs. target (2 minutes, visual not verbal).
- Shout-outs — specific wins or top performers from the past week.
- Blockers — anything affecting more than one person, raised openly.
- Announcements — process changes, upcoming deadlines, schedule notes.

05 SAMPLE 1:1 NOTES (GENERIC)

What's working	Cleared backlog on daily basis ahead of schedule; felt more confident handling escalations this week.
What's not	Still occasionally forgetting to hold tickets status when stepping away — idle time ticked up mid-week.
Action items	Set a personal reminder to pause status before stepping away; TL to check in Friday on idle trend.
Next check-in	Following week's regular 1:1 slot.

Note: this document has been recreated with generic detail for portfolio purposes. It reflects the cadence and agenda structure I used in practice; the sample notes are illustrative, not an actual conversation.